Herrick Sees Nation in Present Situation Moved by His High Ideals.

NILES, Ohio, November 20 .- "Mc-Kinley perceived the importance of maintaining right relations with other nations," said Myron T. Herrick, former Governor of Ohio and former amassador to France, orator at the laying of the corner stone of the William McKinley Birthplace Memorial here. "His conduct of the Spanish war and our part in the Boxer rebellion and his views on international questions reflected a broad and generous comera of exclusiveness into new world

"The patriotism, the wisdom, the far seeing vision that guided him are alive today in America to lead us as we enter through a world crisis upon another period of history, into which as yet we can see but dimly. America is fundamentally idealistic. Once the right note is sounded, the original idealism implanted in us by our forefathers revives.

"For our nation furnished the example, perhaps the only one in history, of a nationality founded upon one pure ideal, without material interests, by men who expatriated themselves in order to attain justice and liberty."

James H. Hoyt of Cleveland, an intimate friend of the martyr-President, reviewed the achievements of the McKinley administration and told incidents of the President's official life.
